THOUSANDS ROAR GREAT WELCOME TO NEW LEADERS OF THE NATION

Wild Over Wilson, Marshall Too.

PARADE IS BEST YET.

Many New Wrinkles In Inaugural Pageant.

JUST HOW IT ALL HAPPENED.

New President Sworn In Before Cheering Throngs by Chief Justice White and Delivers Simple Address—Wild and Jubilant Crowds Line Pennsylvania Avenue, Jam Stands, Dot Windows and Lean Over Roofs as Elaborate Procession Passes—Wilson Family Holds Reunion.

Washington, March 4.—In the presence of the biggest crowd that ever packed and jammed itself into the great plaza at the east end of the capitol, surrounded by high civil and military dignitaries, diplomats and statesmen of his own and foreign countries, Woodrow Wilson, erstwhile governor of New Jersey and president-elect, today took the oath of office that made him the twenty-eighth president of the United States.

Less than an hour before, with solemn ceremonial, Thomas R. Marshall, the vice president-elect, had been inducted into his office in the senate chamber before the members of both houses. Somewhat earlier still President Taft, the president and vice president-elect, with their respective guards of honor, the Essex troop of Newark, N. J., and the Cuyler Black Horse troop of Indiana, had swept down Pennsylvania avenue on their way to the capitol between row on row of cheering, shouting thousands.

Before that and harking back to the dim and distant yesterday, when "the man of the hour" left his Princeton home for his four-year sojourn in this city, escorted by two special trainloads of his "boys," members of the student body of Princeton university, events followed each other in rapid sequence. Among these was the president-elect's reception by a committee headed by Dr. Thomas Nelson Page, the famous author, at the Union station last night and the reception and smoker given in his honor by his old classmates and others of the Princeton Alumni association at the New Willard.

Yet all the receptions and formal speechmaking that went before, just as the White House luncheon and great military pageant that followed, were but the setting of the principal scene, the background of the event which will make the history of this country for four years to come.

Crowd Gathers Early.

Soon after daybreak this morning the crowds began to gather along Pennsylvania avenue and in front of the great platform that had been erected for the inaugural exercises at the eastern end of the capitol. Long before noon every available inch of space was taken.

As the august procession which preceded the inaugural ceremony filed out of the capitol and wound its way across the platform, a hush fell over the crowd. Mechanically many uncovered their heads.

MR. AND MRS. WILSON

And Their Daughters, Margaret, Jessie and Eleanor.

The sergeants-at-arms of the senate and house, followed by the marshal of the District of Columbia, made up the vanguard of the procession of high dignitaries. Behind these last came Chief Justice Edward D. White of the supreme court, whose duty it was to administer the oath of office to the president-elect, and the associate justices, followed by the committee on arrangements.

Then came the president and the president-elect, and at their rear a distinguished following of ambassadors, governors and other dignitaries, including the newly sworn vice president.

Chief Justice Administers Oath.

When the procession paused every ear strained attention to catch the words that would usher into the chair of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln the first Democrat to gain that high place in a score of years.

Solemnly and distinctly, though most of the waiting thousands hanging on the event of his words could not even see the motion of his lips, the chief justice administered the oath of office to the president-elect.

An instant the waiting host stood silent. Then it became a shrieking, leaping mob, roaring a pandemoniac welcome to the nation's new executive and all but smothering the saluting cannon which first gave notice that a new president had been inaugurated and a new administration begun.

From the crowd in the square and on the platform the other massed multitudes that lined the broad sides of Pennsylvania avenue took their cue, and it was many minutes before President Wilson could begin his brief inaugural address. Even then so great was the clamor that only those nearest to him could distinguish what he said.

Immediately after the address was finished President Wilson, accompanied by the ex-president, hastened to the Pennsylvania avenue side of the capitol, where carriages awaited to take the party to the luncheon in the executive mansion.

During the drive Mr. Taft sat on the left of his successor. In this he followed established precedent, a precedent that was broken four years ago by Colonel Roosevelt, who went directly from the capitol after the inaugural exercises were over to the Union station to take a train for Oyster Bay.

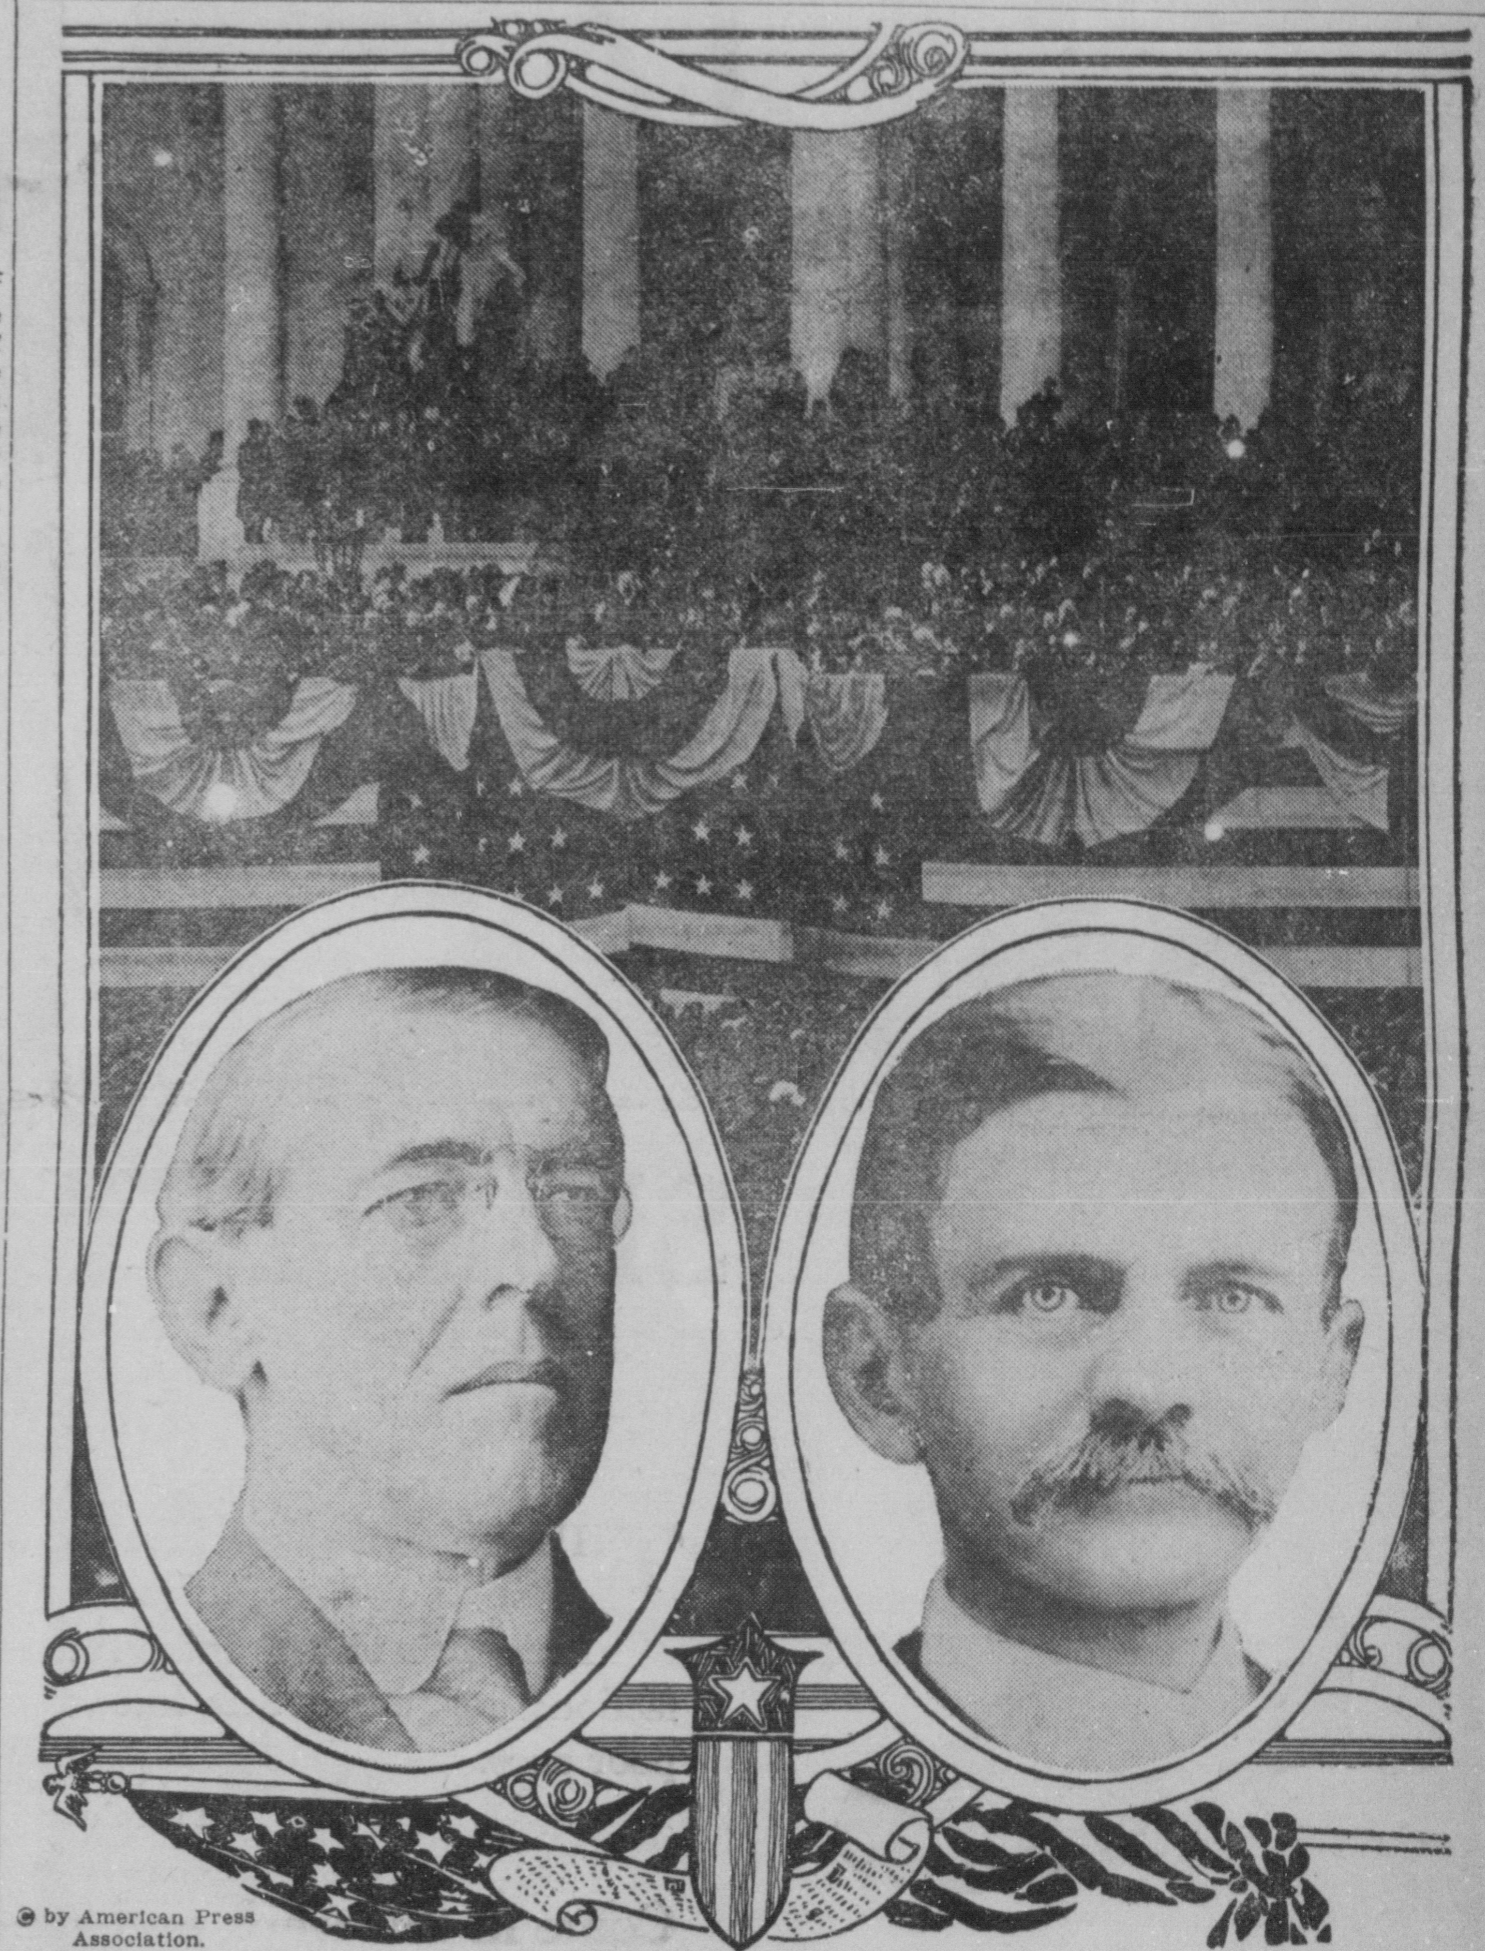

All along their route up Pennsylvania avenue the old and the new presidents were greeted tumultuously. Indeed, to an observer not familiar with the situation it might have been difficult to determine which was the incoming and which the outgoing chief executive, so well did the genial Taft smile match with the beaming features of President Wilson.

At the executive mansion the two were met by Mrs. Taft, who hitherto had taken no part in the day's ceremonies, and a subcommittee of the official reception committee. President Wilson also saw for the first time since early today Mrs. Wilson and their three daughters, who had been under the escort of special military aides during the ceremonies at the capitol.

There was a brief exchange of compliments between Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Taft, in which the latter gracefully turned over the suzerainty that had been hers for the past four years to the new mistress of the White House. Soon afterward the ex-President and Mrs. Taft quietly left through a rear entrance to take the 3:05 train from the Union station for Augusta, Ga. Here they will spend several weeks before going to New Haven, where Mr. Taft will take up his work as professor of law in Yale university.

Wilson's Official Day Begins.

President Wilson's official day began at 10:30 this morning. At that hour a delegation of the congressional committee waited upon him at the Shoreham, where he stopped last night, to escort him to the White House.

President Wilson, Vice President Marshall and Inauguration of Grover Cleveland In 1885

A similar delegation waited upon Vice President-elect Marshall at the same hotel, where the new vice president will make his home during the coming months.

At the executive mansion the incoming president and vice president were greeted by Mr. Taft, and a few minutes later the fateful ride to the capitol was begun. The president and president-elect occupied the first carriage with two members of the congressional committee.

In the carriage following were Vice President-elect Marshall and three members of the committee, there being no retiring vice president. After them strung along the carriages of a host of cabinet officers and other high dignitaries of military and civil rank.

On the way to the capitol President Taft occupied the seat on the right side of the carriage, this position being reversed after the inaugural ceremony and the new president having the seat of honor on their return to the executive mansion.

Arrived at the senate wing of the capitol, the president and president-elect went at once to the president's room. Vice President-elect Marshall repaired to the vice president's chamber.

Short Delay Occurs.

Here there was a short delay owing to some hitch in the proceedings, but it was soon over. The committee on arrangements waited on the president and president-elect and escorted them to the senate chamber, where they were given seats reserved for them in front of the vice president's desk.

The same committee also escorted the vice president-elect to the senate chamber, where the members of the house and of the supreme court were already seated.

Then on the eve of the senate's adjournment the president pro tempore administered the oath that made Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana vice president of the United States. Immediately thereafter the senate adjourned after a prayer by the chaplain.

Following the adjournment Vice President Marshall delivered his inaugural address, after which he administered the oath of office to the senators-elect.

At the conclusion of these impressive ceremonies within the senate chamber all those assembled there formed a procession, marching through the rotunda of the capitol to the platform at the east end of the building, where the big event of the day, the actual swearing in of the president-elect, was to take place.

The Great Parade.

The spectacular event, so essential to the rest of today's celebration, the great military and civic pageant this afternoon holds the public's interest. Considered purely from a spectacular viewpoint, it is not only by far the biggest feature of the inauguration, but in many respects surpasses anything that Washington has seen in a long series of inaugural spectacles.

The decorations also are unique and attractive in character. Pennsylvania avenue from end to end of the line of march gleams with green and white, the color scheme adopted by the city officials.

The stand where the president is now reviewing the parade, erected on the White House grounds, follows out the same general decorative idea, though here the architect has chosen to weave into the stand's design the characteristics of Mount Vernon, the ancient home of the first president, and of Monticello, the homestead of the patron saint of Democracy, Thomas Jefferson.

The luncheon at the executive mansion was only about half over when the parade started.

Councilman Durant prevented the city from acquiring the Paint creek bottoms for cemetery purposes when the ordinance to pay $8500 for the Taylor land was passed upon its passage and lost, Chapman, Cox, McLean and Veal voting in favor of the measure, and Rothrock and Sheets not being present.

The regular session of council was opened by the usual reading of the minutes, and the only correction made was by McLean, who called the clerk's attention to one part of the minutes where he had read "law and order committee" when it should have been "law and ordinance committee."

Frank Johnson was present again and urged the passage of the oil assessment ordinance, calling attention to the amount of traffic on Hinde street, and the urgent need of oiling in the summer time.

John Vangundy asked that some three square lengths of sewer be built on Lakeview avenue, stating that enough persons were ready to pay for taps so that it would not cost the city any great amount for building the sewer. The service committee will investigate the proposal.

Service Director Mark reported that Supt. Fisher stated that he would install the water mains on Pearl and Rawling street before the streets were paved.

Solicitor Rankin informed council that the city park case was now in such a condition that it would be heard in Common Pleas court in the near future.

Then the ordinance to purchase Taylor lands for extending the cemetery grounds, came up, and member Cox took the floor and made a strong appeal for its passage, stating that he had one more plea to make for the land, "if it is a little high," believing that it would be purchased cheaper than elsewhere. He argued that it was not necessary to fill the creek bottom at present, and that it could be done "100 years hence" if necessary.

sary. He mentioned the proposed mausoleum, and that it would be a good thing to start the new grounds. Mr. Cox closed his remarks with the words "the ground is available tonight, and you can either accept it or reject it."

Durant spoke of the grounds and the new law which gave the city the right to condemn any grounds desired for cemetery purposes, except where crossing a highway was necessary.

He then told how he was in favor of the grounds until he made a careful examination of them, and found that the territory was not at all desirable. He suggested land west of the cemetery.

President Light spoke of the hardpan nature of the ground west of the cemetery, after which the vote was taken and Durant saved the day by voting no.

The oiling ordinance was then read the third time, Cox voting no on the motion to place it on its third reading.

Auditor Pine's monthly report was read, showing a balance of $12,511.72 in the treasury.

Durant asked the solicitor about the condition of the oiling assessments, and was informed that a few assessments had not been collected because they were made against persons who did not own the property against which the assessment was made, and that so far only 167 remained to be collected from the last year's assessments.

Cox stated that he was not opposed to the oiling assessment ordinance if the money could be collected, and that some one should be responsible for losses sustained through non-collected assessments.

McLean expressed the opinion that the condition of the assessments was very good, and asked that action on the oiling ordinance proceed.

Durant suggested having those assessed bear any deficiency when the assessments were not paid by some few.

McLean reported that the county treasurer had sent out notices to every one who had not paid their assessments, regardless of the time that had elapsed, and that some had already paid back assessments on improvements.

More time was asked for examination of the East End sewer and Cox suggested that a petition for improving the sewer, be drawn up and presented to the county commissioners. The solicitor was instructed to prepare the petition and report at the next meeting.

The resolution to improve the court house alley was read for the first time. The question of amount of grade in the alley was discussed, some thinking a two-inch crown not sufficient.

Durant called attention to the non-existence of plans and specifications for the other alleys, and moved that the solicitor prepare the necessary resolution covering the other up-town alleys, and report at an early meeting.

A resolution to pave West Paint street, from the west side of Hinde street to the D. T. & I. railroad, was read the first time. The resolution calls for a 30-foot roadway.

A petition to construct a 4-foot sidewalk on the north side of Briar avenue, was read, and it was voted to give the property owners the grade so that they might build the sidewalk. The service director was instructed to build the necessary crossings.

McLean then presented the long lost traffic ordinance, and it was read the second time. The ordinance has been held up in committee since early last summer.

A resolution to construct a sidewalk on the south side of Paint street opposite the B. & O. depot was read the first time.

Adjournment was then taken until March 17th.

Plucky Boy Prevents Accident

Robert Sollars, the 13-year-old son of Mr. Sam Sollars, of the Snowhill pike, had a narrow escape from serious injuries in a runaway Monday.

The boy drives in town to school every day and had started for home after his last recitation, taking with him a school mate, young Miss McCoy, who lives on the way to his home. While driving past the residence of Mr. Allie Anderson, on Leesburg avenue, the horse shied at a milk wagon on the side of the road. A road wagon stood on the opposite side of the road, leaving a narrow space between, and the horse shied into the wagon, the front wheel of the buggy being smashed to pieces. The horse, terribly frightened, started on a dead run toward fair grounds. The boy and girl shut up in a storm front buggy had no chance to jump and it was only the young driver's nerve that saved them from a bad accident.

With great presence of mind the boy jerked and pulled the plunging horse until he finally drew him in towards the pavement in front of Kibler's and at last succeeded in stopping him.

Neither of the two occupants of the buggy were injured, but the buggy was considerably damaged, the wheel, dash and one shaft broken.

The Task of the New President

It has been just twenty years since a Democrat was inaugurated President. Since the 4th day of March 1893, when Grover Cleveland took the oath of office the nation has undergone many changes. The leaders of that day have passed away, others have risen in their places who, in their own turn, have passed off the scene. Men have changed and conditions have changed, many new theories in government have been put to the practical test, some retained and some discarded. The nation has prospered and progressed during the twenty years that have elapsed since the coming of Grover Cleveland. It is larger in every way and business has grown apace with the wealth and opportunities. Necessity has made new demands and new demands have made new conditions.

Great problems were pressing for solution when Grover Cleveland was inaugurated president, and great problems are pressing for solution now, this very day, when Woodrow Wilson assumes the duties of chief executive of the nation.

Unlike Grover Cleveland, the present chief executive assumes control with business conditions, so far as material prosperity is concerned, at flood tide.

His problem is not so much to better business conditions from the standpoint of business as it is to better business conditions from the standpoint of the many. While the tasks of the man who assumed the duties of the office of president twenty years ago this day were great, the problems which confront President Wilson are greater.

The party of the new president is in control of both branches of Congress. His predecessor has done nothing to embarrass or hamper him, the nation is at peace with all the world, foreign and domestic trade were never better.

The new president is of the later day school of Democrats that school which first revolutionized its party and later the thought of the nation.

Woodrow Wilson, the scholar, the political economist, the able, clear thinking statesman, who has, with merciless clearness of thought and diction pointed out the mistakes of others, has been invested with the power to act on his own initiative.

The opportunity for the new president and the Democratic party to lead the nation safely through the forest of business complications, which have sprung up as a result of the marvelous growth and development of the last twenty years, back to the harbor where the rights and liberties of all the people may be safely moored has come. The task has ceased to be a theoretical one and has become a thoroughly practical work.

Woodrow Wilson has demonstrated that he has the courage of his convictions, that he will not falter and fail to put to the test all that which he has advocated as best for the nation and its institutions.

He should always remember that it was conditions that lay at the root of his tremendous vote; that it was his promise to do things which caused his elevation from the ranks.

In choosing the enormous corps of officials who are to assist in the administration, President Wilson should not forget the election a foregone conclusion, by remaining steadfast to principle during all the years when it was unprofitable and unpopular to uphold those principles. In choosing the men who are to assist him in the great work which he has promised to do he should call for the soldiers who carried the colors when the fight waged fiercest.

Many who held firmly to the political beliefs which have now triumphed have passed beyond the labors of this world, but the work which they commenced should not be left to be finished by those who feared to express their opinions or sought the popular side in times of adversity.

For the next four years Woodrow Wilson will be the president of the United States and few indeed are the men who do not wish that his administration will be one unbroken series of pronounced successes, in every detail, from this day until his successor takes the oath of office on March 4th, 1917.

French Ideas Gaining In America

By Professor GUSTAVE LANSON, French Educator

AMERICANS are showing less slavish devotion to German school methods and are now coming to have a PROPER APPRECIATION OF FRENCH THOUGHT AND EDUCATION. This happy change is directly due to the modern exchange professorship system.

Nothing could better serve to dispel the false ideas of one another prevailing in the two republics. The idealism of French thought can be made to blend with American utilitarianism.

AFTER BEING FOR A LONG TIME DEVOTED TO GERMAN SCHOOL CULTURE AMERICANS ARE BEGINNING TO REALIZE WHAT THEY CAN LEARN FROM THE FRENCH, ESPECIALLY SINCE THE REVIVAL OF OUR UNIVERSITIES.

They see with surprise and pleasure that FRENCH ERUDITION CAN BE AS SOLID AS ANY OTHER, while less massive and more easily digested. They recognize the luminosity of our thought, the EXCELLENCE OF OUR ART and our care in crystallizing and presenting ideas in books and lectures.

Poetry For Today

THE R. F. D. MAN.

Get-up Nellie! Get a gait on!
You and I must rush like Satan
If we get this mail delivered any time today.
Get-up Nellie! Keep a-skating!
It's no season to be baiting.
Don't you see the folks a-waiting
Waiting by the open gateways all along the way?

Whoa! Good-morning! Late today,
Roads are bad up Towlesville way.
Hard to make the old mare jog.
Here's your mail, a catalog
From Chicago—Beers and Saw-buck,
Now you'll buy all sorts of truck.
Say, that wheat there does look prime.
Well, we'll talk some other time.
Git-up, Nellie!

Whoa! Good morning Mrs. Brown;
Letter here from John in town.
Postal, too, from Sarah Jane;
Folks have gone postcard insane.
Read three dozen on the way;
How is that for just one day?
Sam Jones lost a colt last night—
Old skinflint, it serves him right.
Git-up, Nellie!

Whoa! Good morning Jonny White
Say, that girl forgot to write.
'Nother fellow, so they say;
What do you care, anyway?
Git-up Nellie! whoa! what's that?
Money order for a hat?
Sure, I'll get it soon's I can.
Lots more girls, John. Try again.
Git-up, Nellie!

Whoa! Look here now, Abner
Drew,
I've a bone to pick with you:
Either you'll take down that gate,
Or your rural mail can wait.
That lane there's a right of way,
Saves me three miles every day.
Don't you know you'll get in jail
Blocking Uncle Sammy's mail?
Get-up, Nellie!

A GLIMPSE BACK THROUGH YEARS

January 17, 1867.

We take pleasure in thus publicly acknowledging the receipt of $25 from the Washington Thespian Society, for the benefit of the M. E. church, of this place, through their treasurer, Mr. T. D. McElwain, for which we return our unfeigned thanks.

J. PURSELL, Tr.

In the amusement afforded by them every thing is of the most decorous character, and nothing is said or performed that can mar the sensibilities of the most fastidious.

The grounds occupied by the Fayette County Agricultural Society for several years past, were owned by what is known as the Fair Ground Company and were sold last week under an order of sale, and were bought by the Fayette County Agricultural Society. Price paid, $3,500.

We notice large crowds of people every day collected about Dahl and Getz grocery store, where they do say they can get the very best quality of groceries at the lowest prices. They always have about everything in their line of trade that is commonly called for.

Last week we published a statement from the freight agent of the Cincinnati and Zanesville railroad, at this place, Mr. Johnson, of the number of hogs and cattle that had been shipped from this station during the year ending 1866. From this it will be seen that 25,390 fat hogs, the product of this county, were shipped from this station during the year, besides large numbers from the stations at Sabina and New Holland.

INTERESTING BITS OF NEWS

Chiefs of Police all over the United States received last week a copy of an act which is now a federal law, providing that whoever breaks the seal of a railroad car used in interstate traffic shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than 10 years. Prosecution under the new law is made possible in any place to which the goods stolen from a car are sent.

The ladies' rest room in the basement of the Court House, at Athens, has proven to be one of the most used institutions of the city. Since a register was placed in the room last June, there have been 1763 ladies to place their names upon its pages and not more than half of those who avail themselves of the room have signed the register, if that many.

George Sowards Jr. of Chillicothe, was watching a force of men do a job of track welding. The men were using an electric fuse and its glare was blinding. The workmen wore colored glasses. Young Sowards watched the operation with unprotected eyes for a long time. The next morning he woke up with an intense pain in his eyes and entirely blind. His sight is slowly returning.

The General Safety Committee of the B. & O. railroad has arranged what is known as the ten commandments of the B. & O. They are as follows:

Thou shalt obey the rules to the letter.

Thou shalt assume the responsibility of thy fellows welfare and thy own.

Thou shalt teach all men to be careful.

Thou shalt teach the "green" man what to avoid.

Thou shalt not indulge in intoxicating troubles.

Thou shalt not engage in domestic troubles.

Thou shalt be loyal to thy God, thy wife and thy company.

COAL PRICE TRIPLES WAGE INCREASE PAID EMPLOYEES

Coal Barons Increase Pay of Men $4,000,000 More a Year and Raise Price of Commodity $13,450,000.

Washington, March 3.—Hard coal companies increased the wages of their employes $4,000,000 a year after the strike agreement of last May and increased the price of anthracite to consumers $13,450,000, according to a report based on an investigation by the bureau of labor, submitted to the house today.

The report submitted by Secretary Nagel is the result of an investigation conducted in response to a house resolution asking for the elements of cost and profits included in the present high prices of anthracite.

An average increase of 26 cents a ton in wholesale prices was discovered to have been made since the strike agreement of last May. In spite of the fact that the workers benefited about $4,000,000 in increased wages during the year, the report adds that "the recent increase in prices have been more than sufficient to compensate fully those companies whose costs of production have increased most rapidly during the recent years, and at the same time have greatly increased the profits of those companies, of whom there are several, whose costs of production either decreased or remained stationary during the same period."

Profits in Selling at Premiums.

Coal for domestic use increased a fraction over 31 cents a ton, that on pea coal and the smaller steam sizes 16 cents a ton. These figures were based on comparison of net receipts by the operators after the agreement of May last with their receipts during the same months, June and September 1911.

Of the more than $13,000,000 gained by the operators after the strike agreement, 10,900,000 was derived from general increase in prices and about $2,550,000 from the suspension of April and May discounts, while in addition a limited number of operators is reported to have "received very large sums through the sale of coal at premiums made possible by the shortage of shipments," incident to the strike. The discounts of 40 and 50 cents a ton customarily allowed in April and May on domestic size coal were suspended during those months in 1912.

Wage Increase 10 cents a Ton.

As a result the operators not only gained by saving this discount, says the report, but in addition purchasers who were unable to obtain their usual supply in these months were forced to buy it during June, July or August, when discount rates were smaller, or in September and later when full circular prices are charged. The $13,450,000 the report says was not the net profit, because out of it came the cost of the six weeks cessation of work by the strikers and also the increase in their wages.

The increase in wages, however, the report adds, represents a raise of only 8 to 10 cents a ton in the cost of coal production.

PRIVATE HOSPITAL OPENED HERE TODAY BY DR. R. M. HUGHEY

Local Specialist Opens Only Hospital of Its Kind in This Part of the State, and Performs First Operation Today—Remodeling Top Floor of Midland Building on Main Street and Installs All Latest Equipment.

Dr. R. M. Hughey, Washington's well known eye, throat, nose and ear specialist, opened today a private hospital in his office building on Main street.

For some time Dr. Hughey has felt the need of hospital accommodations for his own patients, many of whom come from a distance and find it inconvenient to obtain outside quarters. His present office building afforded the opportunity for a splendidly located hospital in conjunction with his own office and within constant reach of his immediate attention.

The new hospital is not intended to compete with the general hospitals of the city, but is established solely for the accommodation of Dr. Hughey's own patients, and gives to them the advantage of being under the direct attention of the specialist, and at far lower rates than it would be possible for outside hospitals to give. The entire office building has been thoroughly cleansed and renovated and the second floor converted to hospital purposes.

Eight rooms, thoroughly equipped with everything necessary for the care of the patients, and bright and tasteful in mural decorations and furniture, open from a center corridor. The suite contains an operating room, bed rooms, rest room, dining room and kitchen. The equipment is modern and complete and affords every facility for Dr. Hughey to give to his patients the best of care.

There were two cases in the new hospital on Tuesday, its opening day. Mr. Wm. Alexander, of Madison Co., was operated upon for cataract and Mr. Bennett, of Clinton Co., for deviation of the septum.

Dr. Hughey has been wonderfully successful in his cataract operations, and has patients in a wide radius of territory who accredit to his skill their recovered eyesight. While he is most generally known as the "eye doctor," he is equally successful as an ear, throat and nose specialist, and is widely recognized in the profession as a specialist of exceptional ability in all of these branches. Many who know only the "specialist," are unaware that Dr. Hughey is also a regularly graduated physician, and had several years' experience in general practice and hospital work before entering his special field.

Fayette county and Washington are certainly fortunate in having a specialist of the recognized ability of Dr. Hughey, a man who has had the advantages of study in the finest hospitals of Europe and is indefatigable in keeping abreast of the latest research and knowledge. Dr. Hughey is a prominent member of the Fayette County Medical association and active in its progressive movements. He was also one of the earliest advocates of a general hospital and gave to the project no little personal work.

It may be of interest to the public to know that Dr. Hughey is the only eye, throat, nose and ear specialist in this section outside of Cincinnati to open his own private hospital.

THE LATE HAPPENINGS OF INAUGURAL DAY IN NATIONAL CAPITAL

Special to Herald.

Washington, D. C., March 4—Inauguration day dawned cold and gray, with the sun obscured by heavy lowering clouds. While it was not extremely cold, yet the atmosphere was heavy and damp.

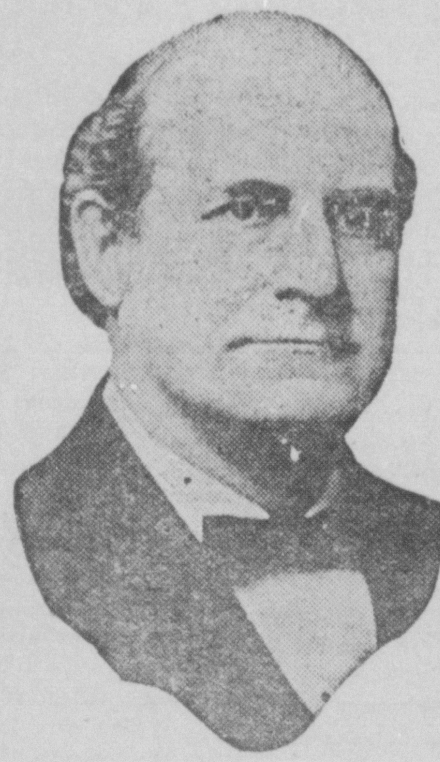

Early in the morning Mr. Bryan and Mr. McCombs were called into consultation by Governor Wilson and conferred with him for some time.

At the conclusion of the conference Mr. Bryan came out holding in his hand one of the invitations issued to new cabinet members and providing places for them in the Senate chamber this afternoon.

Shortly after this it was given out that Mr. Wilson would not send the cabinet names to the Senate until late this afternoon. However, that the list made public this morning was authoritative as to the personnel of the cabinet.

Washington now accepts the following slate as constituting the final selections of the President-elect: Secretary of state, William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska. Secretary of Treasury, William G. McAdoo, of New York. Secretary of War, Lindley M. Garrison, of New Jersey. Attorney General, James McReynolds, of Tennessee. Postmaster General, Representative Albert Burleson, of Texas. Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina. Secretary of the Interior, Franklin K. Lane, of California. Secretary of Agriculture, David F. Houston, of Missouri. Secretary of Commerce, Representative William C. Redfield, of New York. Secretary of Labor, Representative William B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania.

W. J. Bryan.

The distinguished Nebraskan has been chosen as premier of the Wilson cabinet.

Rumor was persistent, however, that the list made public this morning was authoritative as to the personnel of the cabinet.

President-elect Delights in Jokes

Woodrow Wilson, our new President, says W. S. McAdoo in the March "Century," has a child's delight in repetition of jokes, and unwearied pleasure in reciting over and over again his favorite nonsense verses and limericks, in reading over and over again particular essays of "Mr. Dooley," in telling over and over again certain anecdotes which have pleased him, especially if they are dark stories. And the stories which especially delight him are those that reveal the real personality of the Negro, his naivete and disinclination to admit that he doesn't understand "big words," as, for instance the story of the Richmond cab driver. A man got in a cab at the Richmond railway station and said:

"Drive me to a haberdasher's."

"Yaas, suh," said the driver, whipped up his horse, and drove a block; then, leaning over to address his passenger, said, "Scuse me, Boss, but whard' you say you want to go?"

"To a haberdasher's."

"Yaas, suh, yaas, suh." After another block, there was the same performance: "Scuse me, Boss, but whard' you say you want to go?"

"To a haberdasher's," was the somewhat impatient reply.

Then came the final appeal:

"Now, look a-here Boss, I be'n drivin' in dis town twenty year, an' I ain't never give nobody away yet. Now you jes' tell dis Nigger whard' is you want to go."

Miss Jennie Bowman, Presbyterian Church, Thursday, March 6.

Can't Set 'Em Up In Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., March 4—The House has taken a running start and landed another vital blow to the wet element by passing, by a vote of 147 to 36, a bill which makes it a misdemeanor to "set 'em up" to any one. The bill further provides that any state or county official found intoxicated shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $50, and on the second offense shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $100 and relieved of office.

TRIO OF YOUNGSTERS IN THE CITY PRISON FOR HOUSEBREAKING

Boys From Springfield Had Junk in Possession and Are Accused of Entering School House and Stealing a Number of Articles

With the prospect of a prison sentence staring them in the face, three boys, not more than 19 years of age are reposing in the city lock-up, charged with breaking into the West schoolhouse near Bloomingburg.

The trio, John Marshal, Ralph Gilmore and Alonzo Gilmore, were arrested in this city Monday while trying to dispose of a quantity of old rubber, brass, zinc and the like. Their apprehension was due to Mr. Horace Wilson, who lives near the West school house, and at whose home the trio had stopped Sunday evening begging something to eat.

Mr. Wilson was in this city and saw the boys pass along the street. He instantly recognized them as the boys who stopped at his house and who had evidently gone on to the school building, pried a screen loose, forced a window and entered. He communicated with the police and a few minutes later they were under arrest.

Some time Sunday night the West school house was entered and considerable damage done to books and the like, and several articles were stolen, including the sheet of zinc under the stove.

Suspicion immediately pointed to the boys, and when they were arrested they had a quantity of junk which they had been carrying in a sack. One of the boys had a revolver upon his person. They stoutly denied their guilt, but the evidence against them was strong.

The spent the night cooped up in the city's "squirrel cage" and their hearing took place before Mayor Smith Tuesday morning. While they proclaimed their innocence they could not give a good account of themselves. Sentence was reserved for the time being.

Ralph and Alonzo Gilmore are the two sons of Alonzo Gilmore, a junk peddler of Springfield, who was recently tried on a charge of non-support of his children. They have been having a hard time of it at home, as evinced by their wearing apparel.

The Marshal lad resides in Central alley, Springfield, and is no more fortunate than his companions.

It is supposed that the boys had no place to go and during the bitter cold Sunday evening, sought safety in the school house to keep from freezing.

Miss Jennie Bowman, Presbyterian Church, Thursday, March 6.

Shaker Farm Changes Hands

The vast Ohio Shaker colony's farm near Lebanon was purchased Saturday by the United Brethren Church and will be used as a home for orphans, aged members and superannuated ministers. The colony farm, composed of 4005 acres of fine land, a church and building, valued at more than $200,000, was bought for $325,000. A payment of $50,000 was made Saturday and notes given for the balance. Crops are expected to pay off the indebtedness.

Rev. A. R. King, who has had charge of the industrial work of the U. B. Church in Akron, took possession of the institution as superintendent Saturday. He will be directed by a board of trustees, of which Governor James M. Cox is a member. Plans are being made to build 500 three room cottages on the farm for aged couples and persons who do not care to live in dormitories. The first residents will be admitted in about 30 days.

Shakers Retain Dormitory.

Until a number of small leases held by farmers expire, the church will not have use of the entire farm. This will be in less than two years. The available land now will be cultivated this summer for the maintenance of the commissary and the provender. The surplus in crops will be applied to the purchase cost.

One of the dormitories on the farm will be retained by the 17 Shakers who are still living. They will hold this for 10 years, and should any be living then, which is improbable, as the youngest is 77 years old, the church will provide further for them. For this privilege the Shakers reduced their original price $25,000.

Rev. A. J. Wagner, pastor of Avondale United Brethren Church last evening said the purchase of the farm would have no bearing on the project to move Otterbein College. The theological seminary is now located on church land northwest of Dayton, but the rest of the university will be kept at Westerville.—State Journal.

The Power of the Press as an Educator

By John P. Fallon.

A great man declared that no hours of his day were better employed or more enjoyable than those which brought him in close touch with people in all walks of life.

Of course, he referred to the hours spent in reading the daily newspaper. The newspaper brings you in touch with people the world over and with the affairs of every country.

Read your newspaper carefully tonight and every night. Discuss its varied subjects at the table, in the evening, or whenever the occasion presents itself. The daily newspaper, with its many excellent features, affords a splendid post-graduate course for grown-ups and gives the children more general information in one evening than they are apt to learn at school in many days. It will also pay you to read the advertisements closely and constantly every day, for they contain valuable information of new goods and opportunities to economize.

Astounding Facts About Tuberculosis

Startling facts relative to the extent of tuberculosis in Ohio and throughout the world have been laid before the Senate and House by Dr. R. G. Paterson, executive secretary of the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, as an argument for the passage of the Weygant bill which seeks to create a department of tuberculosis under the State Board of Health.

One-third of all deaths in Ohio occurring in the wage-earning period, that is between 15 and 45 years are due to tuberculosis.

In Ohio there are not less than 35,000 people infected with tuberculosis.

One-seventh of all deaths in Ohio are due to tuberculosis.

If tuberculosis is detected in its incipency, 80 per cent of all cases at least are curable.

In the world 1,500,000 die annually from tuberculosis.

In Europe 1,000,000 die annually from tuberculosis.

In the United States 155,000 die annually from tuberculosis.

In the United States there are 1,250,000 people infected with this disease.

How to Increase YOUR CORN YIELD

Corn is an exhaustive crop—50 bushels of shelled corn per acre, with stalks, will remove 80 lbs of nitrogen, 29 lbs phosphoric acid and 55 lbs of potash. The farmer who spreads manure puts back nitrogen, but that does not supply phosphoric acid and potash. Every soil expert says that all Fayette county soil lacks phosphorus or phosphoric acid, and some of it needs potash

A good farmer can raise from 70 to 100 bushels per acre if his soil is fertile
MAKE THAT SOIL FERTILE
Put back Nitrogen in manure.
Put back Phosphoric Acid and Potash in Fertilizers

Then you have all three plant foods in proper proportion. A SMALL COST PER ACRE will give you an INCREASED YIELD PER ACRE, and much better QUALITY as well as EARLIER MATURITY. If you think it is good business judgment to invest in Corn Fertilizer I can furnish you the best goods on the market, and give references as to its success from leading corn show men of the country.

Seattle, Wash., March 4.—Joseph Ettor, the leader of the Lawrence, Mass., Industrial Workers of the World strike, was deported from Canada as an "undesirable" person when he reached White Rock, British Columbia, according to advices received here. The orders were issued by the authorities of Ottawa. Ettor was en route to Vancouver to deliver a lecture. He says he will appeal to the Canadian government.

The Drama of London's Fog

There is a whole world of drama bound up in the chronicles of London's fog. This misty and mysterious visitant, far older than Gog or Magog, which used to visit the watches of the night when the metropolis barely lifted itself out of the surrounding marshes, has a fund of comedy as well as tragedy. Countless murders have been committed under its sheltering cloak, men and women have been waylaid, children have been torn from their mothers and wives from their husbands.—London Strand.

No Pay For School Board Members.

Columbus, O., March 4.—The senate defeated the Shanley bill, which proposed to pay members of village and special school district boards $2 for each meeting attended. The measure received only four votes. The bill had been passed by the house.

TWO HUNDRED SICK

Dr. Smedley has obtained samples of the milk and corn starch used in the making of the pies and has sent them to Cincinnati for analysis. None of the cases was unusually serious, although in many instances physicians were called.

Parcels to Go By C. O. D. Plan

On July 1 next the collection delivery feature will be added to the parcel post department of the post-office service of the country. An order putting this into effect has been signed by Postmaster General Hitchcock.

Under the approved regulation a parcel bearing the required amount of parcel post stamps may be sent anywhere in the country and the amount due from the purchaser collected and remitted by the postoffice department. The regulations provide that the parcel must bear the amount due from the addressee, and the collection will be made provided the amount is not in excess of $100. The fee will be 10 cents, to be affixed by the sender to parcel post stamps. This also will insure the parcel to an amount not to exceed $50.

BUCKEYE STATE HAS SLIM TURNOUT

Only Two Organizations in the Big Inaugural Parade.

ALL STATE OFFICIALS ABSENT

Mayor Baker of Cleveland and National Committeeman Moore the Most Distinguished of the Ohio Contingent at the Capital—Not Much Encouragement Held Out to Place Hunters From the Buckeye State.

Washington, March 4.—Ohio's showing in the inaugural ceremonies today was a disappointment. The only Buckeye organizations in the great parade were the Duckworth club of Cincinnati and the Franklin County Democratic club of Columbus. There were no military organizations from Ohio and Governor James M. Cox and other state officials were conspicuous by their absence. There are about 500 Ohioans in the city, the most prominent of whom are Mayor Newton Baker of Cleveland and E. H. Moore, member of the Democratic national committee.

State Senator Finnefrock and Representative Fulton, chairmen of the federal relations committees of the two branches of the legislature, are here. They are much sought after by the Democratic members of congress from Ohio, who are vitally interested in the congressional reapportionment bill which the legislature is to pass. State Senator W. M. Shaffer of Paulding, who is an aspirant for the appointment as first assistant postmaster general under the Wilson administration, heads a somewhat formidable array of Democratic job hunters from Ohio.

Ohio will not have a member of the cabinet, nor has the state anyone prominently placed in the organization that surrounds Woodrow Wilson and will, in all probability, dominate the patronage distribution.

Senator Pomerene and the Ohio Democratic congressmen have held out little encouragement to their constituents, who have rushed forward with their claims to recognition, and they have made little or no effort to establish themselves on such terms of intimacy with the new president and his officials that they might be able to secure at least a few first-class appointments. With only the Franklin County Democratic club and the Duckworth club participating in the big demonstration, President Wilson had little to admonish him that Ohio is still on the map, politically speaking.

Hy Davis Again Named.
Cleveland, O., March 4.—Hy D. Davis was appointed United States marshal for the northern Ohio district for the sixth time.

DEMOCRATS ASSUME ENTIRE CONTROL

was almost abreast of the White House when President Wilson first showed himself in the glassed-in section of the reviewing stand that had been reserved for him. His appearance was the signal for a wave of applause that swept all before it, drowning the music of the bands, as it rolled toward the capitol.

There were many in the crowd who stopped cheering as the veterans of 1861-5 passed by and turned away their heads. Even the president, self-contained master of self as he has shown himself to be, was visibly affected. He was seen to swallow hard several times and once he turned away to wipe his glasses, which seemed suddenly to have become misty.

According to Major General Leonard Wood, U. S. A., chief of staff and grand marshal of the parade, the regular army section of it was a model for other nations to copy. Certainly, it was one of the most impressive features of the whole spectacle, if regarded from the standpoint of military efficiency and smartness.

The first grand division of the parade, which included this section, was composed of the regular naval and military forces and was under the direction of Major General Wood.

TAFT A PRIVATE CITIZEN AFTER 28 LONG YEARS.

Washington, March 4.—When William H. Taft left today for Augusta, Ga., he became a private citizen for the first time in 28 years. For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Taft has been continuously in the service of the public. He said it feels strange to be plain Mr. Taft again after so many years of "Mr. Solicitor General," "Judge," "Governor," "Mr. Secretary," and finally "Mr. President."

The West Point cadets, in their smart gray uniforms, and the middies from the Naval academy at Annapolis the best drilled corps in the country, from whence will come our future generals and admirals, were also a feature of this division.

Next in line came the militia division, headed by the national guard of the District of Columbia, Brigadier General Albert D. Mills, U. S. A., commanding. Practically the entire national guard of New Jersey was in line in this division.

Other states that were represented were Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maryland, Virginia, Georgia, Maine and North Carolina.

Military Schools Represented.

Here also the cadets of the various military schools of the country marched, among them the cadets from the Virginia Military institute, the Culver Military academy, the Carlisle Indian school, Purdue university, the Citadel cadets and the Georgia Military academy.

The third division was made up of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Union Veteran union, the Spanish War Veterans and various other patriotic organizations. In command was General James E. Stuart of Chicago, a veteran of both the Civil and Spanish wars.

Chief Marshal Robert N. Harper, chairman of the committee on civic organizations, led the fourth grand division, which was composed of various civic organizations, mostly political, from all parts of the country.

One feature of this division was a band of American Indians dressed in the costume of their ancestors. Another er was the Princeton students, who escorted the president from his home to this city. They headed the college men's section of the parade.

M'FARLAND TO RETIRE

Chicago Boxer, Before Quitting, Is Anxious to Defeat Two Men.

New York, March 4.—"I intend to retire from boxing within a year," said Packey McFarland, the wonderful Chicago lightweight boxer who arrived here with Manager Emil Thiery and Willie Shaffer, his sparring partner. "But before that time arrives I am anxious to defeat two men, Jack Britton and Willie Richie."

It is likely that a match will be arranged with one or both of these boxers before the end of the year.

SUFFRAGETS INDIGNANT

Want Wilson to Investigate Conduct of Washington Police.

Washington, March 4.—Rank mismanagement by the Washington police of the women's big procession on Pennsylvania avenue resulted in a steady mile of disorder for more than an hour, while the crowd, vaguely estimated at 250,000 and more, assembled to see a parade.

One man in the crush at the south end of the treasury, dropped dead of heart disease. Three hundred women and girls were brought into Washington hospitals in a fainting condition in less than two hours.

Insults to the women marchers far back in the line of paraders that were more vile even than spoken insults, sometimes were suffered when men pressed up to the marchers.

Later, in Continental hall, the women turned what was to have been a suffrage demonstration into an indignation meeting, in which the Washington police were roundly denounced for their inactivity, and resolutions were passed calling upon President-elect Wilson and the incoming congress to make an investigation and fix the responsibility for the indignities the marchers suffered.

LAMP EXPLODED

Four Persons Burned to Death in an Austrian Lodging House.

Warren, Pa., March 4.—Four persons were burned to death and one fatally burned in an Austrian boarding house at Mayburg, Forest county. There were 50 persons sleeping in the house at the time of the conflagration. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp. The building was two stories high, and by leaping from the second story windows most of the inmates were able to escape the flames.

FINE REMITTED

Convicted Sugar Baron to Serve Thirty Days in Jail.

New York, March 4.—Ernest W. Gerbracht, former president of the Williamsburg sugar refinery, was taken to jail at Mineola, L. I. Gerbracht, who was convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government out of sugar duties, was originally sentenced to serve two years and pay a fine of $5,000. President Taft, however, commuted the sentence to 30 days and remitted the fine.

Aged Man Victim of Robbers.
Dennison, O., March 4.—A Scotch collie barking and running from the home of Ourant Kallor, 62, summoned neighbors, who found the aged man lying in bed, his head covered with cuts and bleeding profusely. He was unconscious and it is believed he had been in that condition since Saturday evening. The assault is believed to have been the work of a robber.
